

Curriculum & Authentic Assessment

First Congregational Church Weekday Preschool & Kindergarten offers a child-centered learning environment that focuses on the social, emotional, cognitive, and physical well-being of every child.

Foundations for instruction include Jean Piaget's theory of play, Howard Gardner's theory of multiple intelligences, Eric Jensen's brain-based teaching methods, and Galina Dolya's 'Key to Learning' curriculum, which is based on Lev Vygotsky's social-culture theory of cognitive development.

A portfolio of work samples, photographs, and written observations is created to allow students, parents, and teachers to set individualized goals, and to observe overall growth and development throughout the year.

Our Purpose & Philosophy

The purpose of our school is to meet an ongoing need in Winter Park and the surrounding communities for an early childhood education program of the highest quality. At First Congregational Church Weekday Preschool & Kindergarten we strongly believe that active play is the most natural way young children learn. Our curriculum abounds with activities that encourage children to create, explore, invent, observe, listen, question, imagine, dance, sing, and more! Learning experiences are designed to cultivate firm foundations for future academic endeavors, focusing on the unique development of each child's social, emotional, physical, and cognitive abilities.
